

MILESTONES: A DISCIPLESHIP PATH FOR CHURCH AND HOME

BRIAN HAYNES

What if your church and the families that compose your church engaged in a simple partnership to disciple the next generation by working together 24/7? Imagine if your weekend church experience for adults, youth, and children became a catalyst for faith talks, God moments, and discipleship milestones in the home throughout the week. Discover Milestones, a strategic path for church and home that can become your own.

Key Points:

1. There should be a common discipleship path for church and home
2. Parents are the primary faith trainers by design
3. Total alignment is key
4. 7 Milestones
5. Teaching and empowering discipleship behaviors
6. The church can build bridges to the home

Key quotes:

1. “Just because Jesus gave us the great commission does not mean he omits Deuteronomy 6. It’s Matthew 28 + Deuteronomy 6.”
2. “Parents want to lead their children spiritually. They just need to know where to step next.”
3. “What is your plan for helping parents and grandparents disciple the next generation growing up in their own homes?”
4. “The fruit comes in our attention to the mundane moments of life with our children. It’s not just about the mountain top, big event. It’s more about as we sit at home, walk along the road, lie down, and get up.”
5. “Senior pastors must clear the way by casting vision so that generational disciple makers can lead families toward discipleship at home.
6. “This kind of strategy must pour out of mission, vision, and values. Otherwise, it’s just another program.”
